

Two Apprehended By Sheriff After Intensive Search

Pickaway County Sheriff Dwight Radcliff was questioning two Kentucky men apprehended 10:15 a.m. today after an intensive 24-hour search by law enforcement agencies from Pickaway and Franklin Counties.

At press time, Radcliff was interrogating Allen Billups who was allegedly involved in two aggravated burglaries, Sunday. The second man, whom sheriff's authorities are checking for a true identity, claims to be Edward Young.

Sheriff's authorities received a call at 11:45 a.m. Sunday from Mrs. Vernon Bolender, Lockbourne Road, reporting that they had just returned home from church and were confronted by a man with a gun, as they entered the rear door.

The subject pushed the gun in Mr. Bolender's stomach advising him not to move or he would shoot him.

At that time, a second subject came from the house and the two fled south along the railroad tracks.

Bolender's told Radcliff that their house had been ransacked.

Twenty Pickaway units, assisted by the Columbus Police Department helicopter, converged on the area for an unsuccessful 2½ hour search. However, investigation revealed that the duo had been seen earlier in the village of Lockbourne.

At approximately 4 p.m., Detective

Thompson saw the two walking in a field west of Route 23. Again, Law authorities combed the area, chasing the subjects through a cornfield to Route 762.

Two Columbus choppers, Commercial Point Police, Ashville Police and Mt. Sterling Police assisted Pickaway units in an on-foot search of the bank of the Scioto River. Again the 3½ hour search was futile.

John Barth, Route 1, Weigand Road, Ashville, called the Department reporting that while he was gone, between 7:30 a.m. to 10:15 p.m. thieves had entered his home and took a small calibre gun, tampered with his car and changed clothing.

The search began again, with witnesses advising authorities that the two had been spotted along Weigand Road.

The Chessie System had reported that the burglars were seen behind 84 Lumber Co. The area was checked, including Circleville, with nothing found.

Billups was scared from 84 Lumber early today and apprehended, by Deputies James Fite and F. R. McCoy, while trying to hitch-hike along Route 23.

Deputies Bill Dountz and William Carmeans caught Young along the railroad tracks south of DuPont.

The two break-ins are still under investigation.

Florida, Alabama Areas Brace For Hurricane

MIAMI (AP) — Tropical Storm Eloise, which killed 42 people as a hurricane last week, became a hurricane again today, aiming its 85 mile-per-hour winds and driving rain the Florida-Alabama Gulf Coast.

The hurricane was expected to hit the area of Mobile, Ala., and Pensacola, Fla., late today, said Neil Frank, director of the National Hurricane Center in Miami.

Eloise was located some 275 miles south of New Orleans at 8 a.m. EDT.

Hurricane warnings were issued from Grand Island, La., to Apalachicola, Fla.

Eloise was moving north at 14 m.p.h. "and is expected to gradually turn toward the north-northeast this afternoon, with the center reaching the coast in the Mobile-Pensacola area this evening or tonight," said Frank in an 8 a.m. advisory.

"Conditions remain favorable for the hurricane to continue to strengthen before reaching the coast. Gales extend outward 125 miles north of the center."

Tides were expected to be five to eight feet above normal near, or just east, of the point where the eye crosses the coast.

Eloise was a killer hurricane last week when it left 42 dead as it crossed Puerto Rico and the Dominican Republic, but it lost its punch before moving over the tip of Mexico's Yucatan Peninsula late Saturday.

"As soon as it got over open water again, Eloise started to slowly regain strength," a spokesman said. "The water temperatures in the Gulf are quite warm, and we see no reason why it shouldn't get stronger."

Meanwhile, tropical storm Faye posed no danger to land for the next several days as its 45 m.p.h. winds blew in the open Atlantic about 750 miles east-northeast of the Leeward Islands.

Patty Hearst To Seek Freedom

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Patricia Hearst may take the witness stand Tuesday in an effort to convince a skeptical federal judge that she is a safe risk to be freed on bail, according to one of her attorneys.

Meanwhile, two newspapers today reported that FBI agents discovered a seven-page document that includes criticism by Miss Hearst of two Symbionese Liberation Army companions.

Reports of the document emerged as defense attorneys for Miss Hearst prepared for Tuesday's bail hearing and amid investigation of possible links between the SLA and terrorist bombings.

Attorney James M. MacInnis had said Sunday that Miss Hearst "will testify," but he later said:

"Miss Hearst may testify. If she does not, she will make a statement and file an affidavit. These latter (the statement and affidavit) are not subject to cross-examination."

Randolph and Catherine Hearst also will testify that their 21-year-old daughter should be released to them on minimal or no bail, said MacInnis, a new member of Miss Hearst's defense team.

Miss Hearst was ordered held without bail the day after her Thursday arrest, which had ended a 19-month search for the newspaper heiress who proclaimed allegiance to the terrorist SLA which kidnapped her.

Miss Hearst gave her occupation as "urban guerrilla" when booked.

In revoking the previously set $500,000 bail, U.S. District Court Judge Oliver J. Carter said Friday: "In this case, we have a person who has announced to the world with others their revolution against the system. They said it to the world and then punctuated it with gunfire."

U.S. Attorney James L. Browning, the chief federal prosecutor here, said in an interview over the weekend that he would not oppose bail if Miss Hearst can convince him she will not flee.

The San Francisco Chronicle said a source close to the case described the seven-page document as "a missive of condemnation" addressed to SLA members William and Emily Harris.

It was found Friday along with other evidence in the apartment where Miss Hearst and fellow fugitive Wendy Yoshimura were arrested the day before, the newspaper said.

The New York Times reported today that the document represented a possible break between Miss Hearst and the SLA. It said the document showed Misses Hearst and Yoshimura were opposed to the use of bombings and other terrorist activities advocated by the Harrises and other SLA members.

Charles Bates, special agent in charge of the FBI office here, refused to comment on the document, saying to do so would prejudice trial evidence.

Bates said evidence — including explosives gathered in connection with the arrests Thursday of Miss Hearst and three comrades — is being compared with evidence on recent San Francisco Bay area bombings.

2 Youths Injured In Freak Accidents

Two Ashville youths sustained injuries in freak accidents, Sunday, with both sent to Columbus Hospitals, investigated by Pickaway County sheriff's authorities.

Three-year-old Traci Wycoff, daughter of Bill and Teri Wycoff, Route 1, Ashville, is listed in fair condition at Children's Hospital, with a fractured arm and lacerations to the right leg and arm, received when she was struck by a lawnmower, 1:10 p.m.

According to witnesses, the child's father was cutting the grass at the residence of Mrs. Gladys Hoffhines, grandmother of Traci when the incident occurred.

Wycoff apparently failed to see his daughter, drove the mower completely over her.

David Webb and Doug Clark working in the shed at the time, pulled the mower off the child.

At 1:30 p.m., the Harrison Twp. Squad was called to the Ashville Grain Company where 15-year-old Mike Crosby fell off an elevator receiving head lacerations, fractured right leg and possible internal injuries.

Crosby and three friends were playing on the elevator when they removed the counterbalances causing it to move upward at a very fast speed. The speed of the elevator caused Crosby to lose his balance and fall into a pit.

He is listed in fair condition in the intensive care unit at Mercy Hospital in Columbus.

Crosby is the son of Esther Crosby, Route 1, Ashville.

Judge Hears Man's Request To Let Daughter In Coma Die

MORRISTOWN, N.J. (AP) — A judge hears arguments today on the request of Joseph T. Quinlan that his adopted daughter be allowed to die. She has been in a coma for five months and doctors say there is no hope for recovery.

Quinlan filed the suit Sept. 12, seeking court approval to disconnect a hospital's respirator from Karen Ann Quinlan, 21, which would result in her death "within minutes" because it is "God's will," he said.

Doctors say the coma was probably caused by an overdose of alcohol and drugs and there is no chance of recovery.

"I was the last to hold out because both my wife and my other daughter were critically ill in the past, and the Lord always answered my prayers before," Quinlan has said. "But after a lot of prayers I became convinced this is what God's will was, that Karen was being called by Him."

Miss Quinlan's heart and lungs have been dependent on a respirator at St. Clare's Hospital in nearby Denville since April 15.

According to the suit, doctors say Karen has irreparable brain damage and no hope of recovery.

At issue is Miss Quinlan's present condition — whether the lack of stable brain waves justifies declaring her legally dead.

Sussex County Prosecutor George T. Daggett said Miss Quinlan's condition was probably caused by the "inadvertent ingestion and the interaction of a tranquilizer and alcohol." He said the taking of the two substances was "innocent" and ruled out "criminal conduct" in the incident.

A few hours before she slipped into the coma, Miss Quinlan and some friends with whom she shared a bungalow were drinking together when she suddenly became ill, Daggett said.

He said interviews with witnesses and records at two hospitals that treated Miss Quinlan indicated an "apparent overdose ... resulted in respiratory failure due to one or both" substances — a tranquilizer and alcohol.

Brecksville Hit By School Walkout

BRECKESVILLE, Ohio (AP) — School bus drivers and cafeteria workers struck today, setting up picket lines, but school officials said the schools remained open.

High school teachers honored the picket lines set up by Chapter 324 of the Ohio Association of Public School Employees, and elementary school teachers were expected to do so.

Controlling Board Ponders Problems

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A special meeting of the State Controlling Board was set today to try to resolve several touchy problems, including a $4 million request to pick up unpaid rental tabs from several agencies in the 41-story State Office Tower.

That request and several other commitments would virtually use up the $18.8 million the legislature appropriated for the state's emergency fund. Officials said the board may have to ask the legislature for a supplemental appropriation for the contingency fund when it returns Oct. 21.

The $4 million office tower rent shortage was apparently overlooked by the legislature. Richard Sheridan of the Legislative Budget Office said two service floors were not included when budget planners figured rent payments for two years based on floor space. The legislature appropriated $7 million for rents in the current fiscal year, when the amount needed was $11 million, according to the Ohio Building Authority.

Otherwise, the board will try to determine whether the legislature inadvertently appropriated $10 million, instead of $5 million as planned, for the newly created Ohio Energy Resource and Development Agency.

If there was a duplication, the emergency fund would apparently contain $5 million that could be used for other purposes. However, some board members said the legislature would still have to make the specific appropriation.

Besides the rentals and energy requests, the emergency fund is supposed to provide $8 million for layoff prevention programs in the departments of taxation and natural resources, $1.75 million for a new rail transportation authority and $250,000 for a land use study ordered by the legislature.

At its regular meeting a week from today, the board is slated to take up funding of the commerce department's consumer protection division.

Charles I. Rhoads, deputy director, will ask the board to release nearly $875,000 from the emergency fund to finance division operations until June 30, 1977.

Rhoads said the consumer division is without funds as a result of a $4 million cut the legislature made in the department's original $15 million budget request.

He said the cut was absorbed by all the divisions within the department, and that a portion of its funds for the biennium were tapped to run the consumer division during the current fiscal quarter.

Some Democrats claim the department is playing down consumer programs.

Atty. Gen. William J. Brown, a Democrat, said he plans to ask the controlling board next week to release about $250,000 to his office for the purpose of maintaining a consumer complaint program. Brown claims that the complaint program has gone out of business in the Republican administration of Gov. James A. Rhodes.

Man Given Probation In Skyjack

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — An Ohioan who served four years in a Cuban jail for a 1969 airplane hijacking has been given a 10-year suspended sentence and placed on probation after pleading guilty to a lesser charge.

Tampa Federal Judge Ben Krentzman handed down the lesser probationary sentence last week to Everett White, 30, of Cadiz, Ohio.

White said he and two friends agreed in January 1969 to hijack an Eastern Airlines jetliner carrying 105 passengers and eight crew members.

The jet, commandeered over Sarasota, was returned from Cuba the next day with all passengers unharmed.

White originally was charged with air piracy, a crime punishable by life imprisonment. However, federal prosecutors agreed to let him plead guilty to the lesser charge of interfering with the duties of a flight attendant through coercion, intimidation or assault. The maxi mum penalty on that charge was 16 years imprisonment.

"At the time I didn't know the extent, the severeness of the crime," White said at his sentencing, "I had time to think about it in solitary confinement."

The Vietnam veteran left Cuba last April, returning to Ohio via Jamaica and the Bahamas. He was arrested in Ohio two weeks after his return. His two companions, Noble Byron Mason III and Larry Franklin Brooks, both of Cadiz, are believed still to be in Cuba.

Weather

Mostly cloudy and continued cool today, high, mid to upper 60s. Cloudy with chance of rain tonight and Tuesday, low near 50. High Tuesday, mid 60s. Probability of precipitation, 20 per cent today and 40 per cent tonight and tomorrow. Temperatures Sunday were: high, 65; low, 47.

Nearly 10,000 Attend Pickaway County Farm Heritage Days

ACTIVITIES—Pickaway County Bicentennial Commission's Farm Heritage Days Saturday and Sunday at the Drummond Brothers Farm and the William L. Green

Farm were attended by an estimated 10,000 persons. Exhibits included horseshoeing, horsepower grinding, sorghum making, threshing, flailing, antique farm machinery and carriages, weaving, miniature sawmill, cider and apple butter making, spinning and carding wool, Indian relics, oxen, and many others. For the children, the more popular activities were playing in the straw pile at the Drummond Brothers Farm, riding the oxen there and riding in a horse-drawn wagon at the Green farm.

Arguments Heard In Nixon's Bid For Documents

WASHINGTON (AP) — A special federal court is hearing three hours of arguments on Richard M. Nixon's attempt to reclaim ownership of millions of documents and the White House tapes accumulated during his presidency.

In the oral arguments today, lawyers for the former president were expected to claim that Nixon has a constitutional right of ownership to the 42 million documents and thousands of hours of tape reels from his administrations.

The former president's lawyers contend that only Nixon can properly assure the privacy rights of the thousands of persons mentioned in all those papers or recorded on the tapes. Nixon also says he needs the materials to write a book and help establish a library of his records.

Lawyers for columnist Jack Anderson and playwright Lillian Hellman are also scheduled to make arguments. Both are seeking public access to the Nixon materials under the federal Freedom of Information Act.

The tangled legal fight has been further complicated by a nine-month-old law declaring that the papers are owned by the government, not by Nixon. Challenges to that statute also are being heard by U.S. District Judge Aubrey E. Robinson Jr. and two appeals court judges, Carl McGowan and Edward A. Tamm.

There was no indication when the three judges will rule. Whatever their decision, a Supreme Court appeal is likely.

As part of the lawsuit, Nixon gave a five-hour deposition at his San Clemente estate last July.

If Nixon should lose in court, his papers and tapes will be opened to public access by the General Services Administration. But if Nixon's lawyers persuade the three judges, some of the Nixon materials will be housed at the University of Southern California in a planned Nixon Presidential Library.

Nixon would reserve the right to destroy any of the tapes.

Until recently, the special Watergate prosecutor's office was also a participant in the Nixon civil suit.

The special prosecutor is now close to going out of business and lawyers from the office have withdrawn from the case.

Ford To Promote Energy Investments

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — President Ford today proposed the creation of a $100 billion government corporation to help private industry finance massive energy resource projects over the next 10 years.

In an address prepared for a convention here of the AFL-CIO construction trades and unions, Ford said the proposed corporation, to be called the Energy Independence Authority, "will undertake only those projects which private business cannot undertake alone."

The President said it would have authority to borrow and lend as a supplement to private efforts to develop oil, nuclear, coal and other energy sources.

Even with $100 billion of financing to pass out, Ford emphasized it could only supplement private efforts because he estimated that "we will need over $600 billion of energy investments over the next decade"

Noting that his audience was among the groups hardest hit by recession and the energy crisis, Ford declared:

"I want to see millions of new jobs in the next 10 years with healthy widening ripples of growth throughout the economy."

He said the Energy Independence Authority can help create jobs by financing vitally needed projects "that will not be financed even by America's great private capital resources."

Ford said the new corporation would be an independent agency reporting directly to the president.

The President and Mrs. Ford head back to Washington tonight after a four-day trip to Oklahoma and California that combined a heavy schedule of public appearances with two opportunities to golf on the Monterey peninsula.

During a meeting Saturday night with editors of the Los Angeles Times, Ford indicated he will decide within a month whether to recommend a one-year extension of antirecession tax cuts due to expire Dec. 31.

"If we think the economy needs a shot in the arm within the next few weeks or a month we will advocate an extension," Ford said. Democratic congressional leaders already are urging an extension of the tax cuts.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said Ford tentatively plans to return to California late next month for two Republican fund-raising dinners where he would be expected to share the platform with former Republican governor Ronald Reagan, a potential 1976 challenger.

Reagan is a co-host for the dinners and would presumably be on hand, Nessen said.

After a morning round of golf at the Cypress Point course Sunday, Ford helped dedicate a new $11.9 million home for the Stanford University Law School at Palo Alto and addressed the insurance men in Anaheim.

Some Unanswered Questions

The capture in San Francisco of Patty Hearst and her colleagues will undoubtedly bring a sigh of relief from their families and police agencies all over the nation.

The families will be glad they are safe, and law enforcement officials happy that a 19-month search is over.

Certainly is worth applauding that there were no more shootouts and incineration, as happened in Los Angeles when other members of the Symbionese Liberation Army perished.

However, unanswered questions remain, and the book is far from closed on the case. For instance:

What caused Miss Hearst's conversion to a radical guerilla philosophy?

What way stations were used on their long hegira to escape capture?

What were the relationships between SLA members?

Are there any more active SLA members, or has the movement been extinguished?

How was the group able to exist during their flight, and were money giving contributors involved?

These and many other questions will occupy police and FBI agents for some time to come.

No vacation is as great as the anticipation of it. Soon, Momma and I will be driving north to count our grandchildren. We promise to leave them exactly where we found them — all nine.

We will start from Florida within a few days. The car is gassed; the dog has been degassed. He will have a baby sitter, brother John. They can bark at each other.

First stop, Hilton Head, S.C. It's a long hop from Hallandale, Florida, but if our bucket of bolts holds together, we may too. At Hilton Head, we will visit old buddies Bill and Amanda Scanlon. She's the type who has the right fingerbowl, suitably warmed. Bill is the type who sticks his foot in it.

We will lie to each other about how great we look. The Bishops will sponge on the Scanlons — eating and drinking everything in sight. After two days, fare thee well, we had a lovely time and all that. When you get the rug cleaned, send the bill to me.

Then on to Camden, where the lovely Eleanor Gerace lives. She's Gayle's girl, big enough to wear lipstick and a friendship ring. She can talk. All I have to do is drop a nickel in her and say, "How are things, beautiful granddaughter?" She can detail more items than the checkout counter in a supermarket.

On to Holmdel, N.J. This stop will be good for several days. We left a lot of people on the Jersey Shore. There is Virginia Lee and Charley Frechette and eight grandchildren. The twins, Robin and Pamela, are 17. They saved baby-sitting money and bought an Appaloosa horse. When you have eight kids what you need is one more big mouth.

Then a bank shot to see Kelly's sister, Janet Hughes, Jim and the two boys. More chats, and coffee and buns. Must remember to bring some new jokes to the Hugheses. The young boys are bigger than their old man.

A lunch with Tom Bly, editor of The Red Bank Register. We are old-time natives of Sea Bright, a village which once invited me to move out because I wrote that our community had 17 saloons and one church. The town council had a lot of nerve, resenting a church.

A short hop to Long Island to see Wally Lehmann. He was our sturdy next-door neighbor, a prince of a guy. He sustained a stroke which was hardly a streak. So, at age 74, he gave up the Gs — golf, girls and guff.

Wally is richer than Croesus. Not in money, but he has a son Walter and a daughter-in-law Marie who don't mind growing old caring for him. Wally's worries are all in his mind. Who cares if one hand is slightly numb? It doesn't show.

We will leave Long Island and head for Manhattan. There we will have lunch with Toots Shor. He has his own restaurant again. This must be the fourth. It's across the street from Madison Square Garden — and that's the third one of those.

One night in New York will be all right provided they don't hit us with another $80-a-day room. Breakfast was $11. For that kind of money, I want the waiter to come home with us.

Then the last long leg, up to Olean, New York. There we will see Dr. Russell Jandoli, head of the school of journalism at St. Bonaventure University. Jandoli and the Franciscans kept the Mark Hellinger Award alive until it became self-sufficient.

I owe a great deal to St. Bonaventure. This time I will repay a small part by conducting a seminar in journalism. What the kids want me to explain is how to earn a lot of money

Southern Tobacco Crop Causes Fuss

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite attention being given to the grain supply and export situation, the big Southern crop of tobacco moved sharply last week into the main arena of U.S. agricultural policy and politics. Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz, in language considered blunt by even his standards, accused the sponsors of a tobacco price-support bill that slipped unopposed through Congress of "secrecy and legislative chicanery."

He said he would recommend a veto of the measure, which would change from crop years to calendar years the basis for determining the support level — an indirect move that the government says would mean $50 million more a year in loans.

Rep. Michael Blouin, D-Iowa, said that if President Ford — who vetoed a more direct support-boosting measure that zipped through in the last hours of the last Congress — does not veto this legislation, he will introduce a measure to repeal it.

But that measure would have to begin in the same committee that originated the controversial one now at the White House.

Not that Blouin's wouldn't also be controversial. He wrote Ford, "It is ridiculous to subsidize tobacco growing when we have medical proof that the use of that product leads to disease and death for thousands of Americans every year." To him, he said, this is "a moral issue."

On Friday, meanwhile, the Agriculture Department extended from Sept. 25 until Oct. 14 the period for public comment on its proposal to reduce the 1976 national marketing quota for flue-cured tobacco. Final decisions on that are expected in late November.

Price-support levels for 1976 under the current formula are likely to increase about 12.5 per cent, USDA says. Under the contested bill alone, the department estimates those levels without working. Before I leave I expect to own 10 per cent of every one of them.

By that time, the leaves will be as crisp as cornflakes, russet and yellow. The night air will be chill and hunters will be in the hills whacking hell out of each other with live ammunition.

Then we will head for home, assuming that those 40,000-mile radial steel tires are good for 20,000 miles.

Momma and I will be smiling all the way. We will smile all the way home too, because I do not recall a trip we made when we weren't happy to get back to our own bed. That may be the key to a happy vacation — delighted to go, rapturous to return.

See you on the road . . .

As for the crop itself, the Outlook and Situation Board said that July's heavy rains in the Southeast, followed by a dry spell, "hurt flue-cured quality" but that over-all production is "gaining substantially."

After 10 consecutive years of decline, the crop is expected to be about 10 per cent greater than last season's. With the carryover from 1974-75, the total supply should be about 5 per cent greater, the board said.

That supply level "is in line with manufacturers' and exporters' utilization prospects," the board said.

Perk Blasts N.Y.C. Bid For Funds

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Cleveland Mayor Ralph Perk says he will oppose New York City's request for a federal loan to bail the city out of its financial crisis.

Perk said Saturday such a loan program will not work and that such special federal aid would establish the principle of welfare for cities.

Perk is one of 16 mayors of the executive committee of the U.S. Conference of Mayors invited to meet with President Ford and New York Mayor Abraham Beam this week to discuss New York's deficit problems.

To prevent ripple effects to other cities of a possible New York City default, Perk suggested the federal government insure notes and bonds of "financially responsible" cities.

Perk said that such insurance would mean that before the federal government issues insurance of notes and bonds, the local government would have to demonstrate it has enough revenue to repay the notes and bonds on schedule.

The mayor said such federal insurance should be granted on condition that states prevent their cities from deficit spending for operating expenses.

He said if the federal government begins to bail out cities, the results will be "an army of bureaucrats descending on cities. Beame's request would result in federal interference in local affairs, decisions and operations. Federal bureaucrats, in effect, would end up replacing the responsibilities of local officials elected by the people."

Dr. Rachel Tompkins Given New Position

A Circleville man employed William F. Trader of Chillicothe to find water on the J. E. Renick lands, recently purchased. Trader's tools consisted of a forked branch from a peach tree and were said to be quite good.

The Good Luck Station located south of the railroad on S. Court St. advertised a high quality gasoline available for the lowest prices in town.

A deep vein of quicksand was reported beneath the city of Circleville when a well driller, employed by Wittich Confectionary, tunneled to 90 feet without having any success. The driller was seeking a water table to furnish an ample supply of water to Wittich's refrigerating apparatus.

The garage of Pickaway Dairy Company, W. Water St., was the scene of a disastrous fire. Lost in the blaze were two delivery trucks, 200 chickens, 25 cases of eggs and a number of egg and butter cartons. Saved was a coop of ducks which were stored in one corner of the building which was not destroyed by the fire.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

The National Fire Protection Association plays a major role in the education of the American public about the hazards of fires.

Their theme is "Moving mankind toward safety from fire."

Under its president, Charles S. Morgan, a concentrated campaign for public awareness is now being launched throughout the United States.

"Learn not to burn" is the slogan of this campaign whose goal is to overcome the apathy and even the ignorance, of many people about the tragedy of home fires.

The target is to reduce the loss of life and injury by fire by at least 10 per cent each year. The rewards will be enormous if the program of the National Fire Protection Association is followed.

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Chairman Arthur F. Burns of the Federal Reserve Board has a popular reputation as being somewhat stubborn, independent, incorruptible and unimaginative.

The attribute mentioned last results from what appears to be a single-minded determination to run the monetary affairs of the country by the book, regardless of the painful consequences that might result.

It is also, it seems, a reputation that might be ill-deserved.

In a speech at the University of Georgia last Friday, Burns made some observations that have been in need of articulation for a long time. In effect, he said this economy is unique, and that it demands unique thinking.

The nation's economic institutions are changing in character, he said. The economy is not responding to conventional measures. Our ability to govern economic matters today, he implied, is marred by an understanding developed in and for an earlier time.

"Conventional thinking about stabilization policies is inadequate and out of date," he said. Students of public policy must, he suggested, devote more time to understanding and reforming the structure of the economy.

Not to do so, he suggested, would mean we might continue to believe the sole cause of our economic problems is the failure of policy. Not so, he said. It is due also to functional changes in the nature of the economy.

In the view of many economists, including those in positions of political influence, a rise in unemployment often is needed to bring down prices. It supposedly works the other way too: If you want more jobs you risk inflation.

"Whatever may have been true in the past," said Burns, "there is no longer a meaningful tradeoff between unemployment and inflation."

There is some mystery why this should be so, but there is no mystery that it is so. During the past year we have experienced prices and joblessness moving higher in tandem rather than going their opposite ways, as we had assumed they should.

Harvard University gave Serpent's Mound in Adams County to Ohio in 1890. A Harvard professor, fearing its destruction for farming, had purchased the land.

Chavez claimed that Kintz made a deal with growers during the union elections.

Pupil Costs Nearly Tripled

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The average cost of sending Johnny or Jane to a public school has nearly tripled in the past 10 years in Ohio, the Department of Education reports.

Way back in the 1964-65 school year, average annual cost for the education of a single youngster in Ohio's primary and secondary school system was $406.58. By last year it had soared to $1,050, and a well-educated "guesstimate" of the 1975-76 level is around $1,125, an education department spokesman says.

Local real estate property taxes paid for 52 per cent of the tab in 1974-75, the state picked up 41 per cent, and the remainder came from federal funds. The state share is expected to increase to 50 per cent over the next five years with the phase in of the new equal yield subsidy formula.

The largest bite of the lower education dollar—some 65.5 per cent—goes toward what school officials call "instruction cost."

This includes salaries for teachers, principals and supervisors, textbooks, other teaching supplies, library materials, playgrounds and staff travel expenses. During the past school year instruction cost accounted for about $683 of the total $1,050 package.

"Salaries and wages paid school employees constitute, by far, the largest operating costs for Ohio's public school districts," the Ohio Public Expenditures Council (OPEC) maintains.

Classroom teachers, the biggest category, received about a 22.4 per cent increase in pay from 1971-72 through the past school year, the private research group reported.

Teachers' salaries in 1974-75 ranged from a starting base of $6,400 to a top of $19,459—an average of $10,735, according to the Ohio School Boards Association (OSBA).

A raise in starting pay to $7,400 takes effect this year, with another boost to $7,900 set for 1976-77. Gov. James A. Rhodes vetoed increases in the school aid bill that would have taken base pay to $8,900 by 1978-79.

Fixed charges for employee benefits, rents, taxes and other fees are the second most expensive category, accounting for 13.5 per cent or about $137 of the total operating dollar.

Nearly nine per cent of costs were spent on "plant operation—heat, lights, telephones and salaries for custodians and engineers."

The percentage increases for utility costs are staggering, as reported by OSBA.

Over a five-year period from 1969 through 1974, the school board lobby found gas for heating up 67 per cent, electricity up 77 per cent and gasoline ahead by 87 per cent.

In a sampling of five areas, OSBA discovered the largest increase went for paper products—a whopping 146 per cent. The fifth category, textbooks, cost 36 per cent more by the end of the five-year period. Most paper products and books fall under instruction cost.

Ohio's increases are in line with those in states of comparable size, the education department says, although the state aid contribution has been slightly below the national average.

Ohio Senate Report

By OAKLEY C. COLLINS
17th District Senator

Except for one day's activity scheduled for late October, the Legislature has suspended further action for the remainder of the year, but the repercussion of just one short special session could haunt Ohioans for a long time to come.

The machinery of special interests politics ground inexorably forward as the Public Employees Collective Bargaining bill came to fruition after months of hibernation. It passed the House along strong partisan lines as it had done earlier in the Senate and is awaiting action by the Governor.

The bill would establish collective bargaining procedures for all public employees in Ohio and allow strikes except by police, fire, corrections officers and mental institution attendants. A substantial number of Republican and Democrat legislators have sought repeal of the state's Ferguson Act, which prohibits public employee strikes. It has proven totally ineffective because its anti-strike sanctions are so extreme the courts are hesitant to enforce them.

The recently passed bill, however, goes as far in the opposite extreme. Elected officials, who are chosen by the people to represent their interests, would be virtually stripped of power to control public budgets. They must either accede to demands for collective bargaining, the outcome of which they cannot control, or face loss of service through public employee strikes. In the latter case, the people whom public employees are supposed to serve cannot turn to another source for essential services because they are a government monopoly. So, for the taxpayers, it's pay up or else.

Another unfair provision of the bill could require public employees to pay union dues to even work as a public servant. The so-called agency-shop clause provides that union representatives may bargain for terms under which non-union employees need not join the union but must none-the-less pay union fees to keep their jobs.

The potential cost to taxpayers of what amounts to taxation without representation is incalculable. The Collective Bargaining bill makes a mockery of the control by citizens of their own government. I oppose this shoddy abuse of the legislative process and have urged Governor Rhodes to veto it.

Majority Democrats brought up nine other vetoes in one house or the other, seven line item vetoes of the so-called Equal Yield Funding bill for education and two other bills vetoed in their entirety. The Senate overrode the education bill vetoes along partisan lines, but they were not considered in the House. No vetoes have to date been overridden.

Legislation introduced in the Senate appropriates $2 million to the Department of Taxation and $3 million to the Department of Natural Resources to prevent layoffs necessitated by budgetary cutbacks. "Layoff prevention funds" were originally given to the Democrat-controlled State Controlling Board via the biennial budget, but Governor Rhodes vetoed that part of the budget as an unwarranted legislative intrusion upon the executive branch of government. The veto was later sustained. A similar anti-layoff appropriation has languished in the House since early July.

The Senate passed and the House concurred in amendments to a House Bill giving the General Assembly greater control over state agency rule-making authority through a legislative review prior to the rules becoming effective.

Current law provides that an agency may adopt rules under the Administrative Procedures Act which requires public notice and hearings, or under specific statutory procedure set forth for the agency. Such rules must be filed with the Secretary of State and may be overridden only by subsequent legislation dealing with the subject or changing the agency's rule-making authority.

Under the bill, following review by a joint legislative committee on agency rule review the legislature could reject an agency ruling by concurrent resolution. Should the Legislature take no action on a rule within 76 days of its filing, it would automatically become permanent.

The bill to prevent hunting of mourning doves went rapidly through legislative channels and cleared the House but failed to gain full Senate consideration. Present law gives the Chief of the Division of Wildlife authority to regulate "taking and possession" of wild animals in Ohio. The "dove" bill transfers to the General Assembly the power to designate which species of wild animals may be hunted or trapped but retains the Chief's present authority to restrict such permissive limits.

Salmon Run Off To Excellent Start

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The fall salmon run in the Chagrin River in northeastern Ohio is off to an excellent start, the Department of Natural Resources said Friday.

Dale Haney, chief of the Division of Wildlife, said heavy rains and cool temperatures have lowered the temperature of water in Lake Erie, triggering the movement of coho from the lake into the river.

The best fishing areas are Daniels Park, Todd Field, Gibson Park, Woodlawn Park, the Ohio 283 bridge and at the mouth of the Chagrin River.

Our nation's supply of natural gas is not down to the shape of Old Mother Hubbard's cupboard — yet. But it is getting critical. Critical to the economy, to employment, to America's very way of life.

Why is natural gas so important to you? Natural gas supplies just about a third of the nation's total energy, and over half of all the fuel used by industry. And, with all of our basic fuels in short supply, tied up in either economic or political problems, the natural gas shortage can't be allowed to continue. If the American way of life is to continue.

Allowing a third of our country's energy supply and half of American industry to strangle is not only unthinkable, it is unnecessary. Many industrial companies already have been slowed down by reductions in their natural gas supply. Without more gas, they will be hit harder this year, and face even more drastic curtailments over the next five years. The result? Massive unemployment.

But it doesn't have to be. There is up to fifty times the amount of gas that was used last year still to be discovered right here at home. It is not being discovered because government price control makes it too risky to search for it. A more rational price policy for natural gas that is still to be discovered would encourage discovery and production of new gas.

This new gas will cost more. But, would you rather pay a little more for natural gas, or face the alternatives? If you're an American, we think we know your answer.

Natural gas is more important to you than you think!

Past Matrons Circle OES Conducts Officer Election

Past Matron's Circle of Heber Chapter Order of the Eastern Star 62, met recently at the home of Mrs. John West in Williamsport with Mrs. M.A. Greenwood, serving as hostess. Other members present were Mrs. Edgar Anderson, Mrs. Carl Hooks, Mrs. Rose Horsch, Mrs. Edna Newhouse, Mrs. Rod Shasteen, and Mrs. Esther Wardell. Heber Chapter worthy matron, Mrs. Jerry Newton, was a guest.

The meeting was called to order by Mrs. Wardell, with the reading of "Peace Of Mind" written by Edgar A. Guest. Mrs. West gave the report of the Ways and Means Committee's project of kitchen knife sales and said that sales were made faster than the merchandise could be kept on hand. She thanked all for their cooperation. Orders are being taken with these orders to be filled no later than the next meeting.

During the election of officers, it was decided that the secretary and treasurer would progress to the offices of president and vice president respectively. Mrs. Shasteen was elected to serve as secretary and Mrs. West as treasurer for the next two years.

The devotional leader, Mrs. West, read the Beatitudes and concluded a short discussion with a prayer. The program consisted of the reading of the Heber Chapter history by Mrs. Greenwood, which she had prepared previously.

The next meeting will be held at the Wardell Party Home on Sept. 25, at 7:30 p.m., with Mrs. Josephine Higgins as hostess. All members are asked to note the earlier meeting time of 7:30. Reservations should be phoned to Mrs. West, 986-2011, or to Mrs. Greenwood, 986-5481, as soon as possible.

Baby Shower Fetes Mrs. Mick Riley

Mrs. Mick (Linda) Riley was guest of honor at a baby shower Wednesday hosted by Miss Marsha Hoffman at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Hoffman, 621 Garden Parkway.

Miss Hoffman selected pink and blue colors for decorations. Miss Patti Wells directed games and prizes were won by Mrs. Diane Radcliff.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Kathleen Hoffman, Mrs. Sue Fouch and Miss Marsha Hoffman.

Guests for the occasion were: Mrs. Bonnie McCutcheon, Mrs. Wanda Riley, Mrs. Sue Fouch, Mrs. Debbi Stevens, Miss Patti Wells, Miss Becky Liston, Miss Suzanne Spalding, Mrs. Becky Levernier, Mrs. Diane Radcliff, Mrs. Bonnie Fout, Mrs. Martha Kellough and Mrs. Kathleen Hoffman.

Gifts were sent by Mrs. Donna Harper and Miss Julie Levernier.

Past Matrons Hold Luncheon Meeting

Past Matron's Circle of Heber Chapter 62, Order of the Eastern Star, will meet 7:30 p.m. Thursday at Wardell Party Home with Mrs. Josephine Higgins serving as hostess.

Members are asked to please note the change in time of the meeting.

Gardenwood Club To Meet Wednesday

The September meeting of Gardenwood Club will be held 8 p.m. Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Ronald Lundberg, 339 Meadow Lane. Co-hostesses will be Mrs. Paul Berrigan and Mrs. Marcus Lackey.

The program "What Does Your Garden Club Offer You" will be presented by Mrs. Ronald Spence, Mrs. Richard Fisher and Mrs. James Buckel.

EASY DINNER

Frying chops, potatoes, Mandarin squash, green salad, cookies, iced tea.

Mandarin Squash

One of the best of the quick recipes. 12-ounce package frozen cooked squash

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 tablespoon dark brown sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon nutmeg
11-ounce can Mandarin oranges, well-drained

Put the squash in a saucepan over very low heat or in a double-boiler over boiling water and heat, turning often, until thawed. (Or thaw squash in refrigerator or in a microwave oven.) add the remaining ingredients except the oranges; stir until butter melts. Just before serving, fold in the oranges; reheat. Makes 4 servings.

DINNER FOR FOUR

Philippine chicken, rice, green peas, salad bowl, pineapple cake, beverage.

Philippine Chicken

One of our best versions of this flavorful dish.

8 chicken thighs (from broiler-fryers), about 2 pounds
3 tablespoons cider vinegar
3 tablespoons soy sauce
Large clove garlic, crushed
1/8 teaspoon pepper

In a 10-inch skillet arrange the thighs in a single layer. Stir together the remaining ingredients and pour over chicken. Cover tightly and let bubble gently, turning several times, until chicken is tender — about 40 minutes. There should be only a fairly small amount of sauce. Serve hot with rice. Makes 4 servings.

SEPTEMBER BERRIES—Favorable weather conditions have produced ready-to-harvest blackberries in patches around Pickaway County. While not growing in abundance, the berries are none-the-less refreshing, even in September.

Cattle Mutilation Cases Rise

DENVER (AP) — Carl Whiteside's full-time job is trying to catch phantoms who carve up cattle carcasses with a surgeon's precision and disappear into the night.

Colored pins protrude from the eastern half of a Colorado map on Whiteside's office wall at the Colorado Bureau of Investigations. Each pin represents a mutilated cow.

"These crimes seem so bizarre, so senseless, so pointless," said Whiteside, 33, the CBI agent assigned to track down those committing what Gov. Richard Lamm called "one of the greatest outrages in the history of the Western cattle industry."

The pattern was set in Colorado one night in April, just after the snows melted. A rancher in Elbert County, east of Colorado Springs, found the shell of a dead cow, its tongue, sex organs, rectum and other body parts carefully carved out.

Since then, sheriffs in almost 20 of the plains counties of eastern Colorado have reported 128 more mutilated cattle, including a dozen in recent weeks.

Whiteside said the Colorado cases bear striking similarities to incidents that first occurred at the turn of the decade in Minnesota, then spread to Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas. Since mutilations began in Colorado, others have been reported in Wyoming, Montana, New Mexico and, this month, Idaho.

"The sheer number of reported mutilations lends itself to the idea that some kind of organized group is doing it," Whiteside said. "The motive is the problem. In most criminal cases, you find the motive, and you'll find the criminal."

"You understand the profit motive in a robbery, or just in rape, or whatever. But as I said, this crime is senseless. There's certainly no profit motive. The body parts they're taking are not worth anything."

Cattlemen have begun posting armed guards at night. Because of theories that the mutilators are using a helicopter, there have been uncorroborated reports that choppers have been fired on.

Ranchers are accustomed to dead cattle. The rancher's guideline for generations has been that 2 per cent of a herd will be lost to disease or weather.

Why the fuss over 129 cattle, some of which have been proved in laboratory tests to have been mutilated by animal predators or carved up after dying natural deaths?

Sheriff George Yarnell of Elbert County, the hardest-hit area with 63 mutilations, said: "It's also the principle of the thing. They're doing this and getting by with it."

Yarnell said that at least some of the animals being cut were dead before the crime. That proves to him that he's not dealing with ordinary criminals.

"Anyone that would want to cut on a critter that's been dead a couple of days in hot weather ... the odor is sickening," Yarnell said.

1040 U.S. Individual Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

(Q.) I bought a brand new house in April 1975. The builder told me that he could not certify the house to qualify for the 5 per cent tax credit now available on some new home purchases, since he had raised the original sales price of the house in January. Now I understand I may be eligible for the credit. Is this true?

(A.) Yes. The original law was changed so taxpayers have to show that they bought the house at the lowest price offered since February 28, 1975, not at the lowest price ever offered. The law is retroactive, so you now may be eligible for the credit. All you need is the appropriate certification from the seller. For further information see IRS Publication 591, "Tax Credit for the New Home Buyer."

(Q.) At the urging of our employer, five of us have formed a car pool to drive to and from work. I would like to know if the car pool expenses are deductible, and if the money I receive from the riders is taxable income.

(A.) The gas, repairs and other expenses for operating a car pool are considered personal expenses and are not deductible. On the other hand, the money received from each of the riders is considered reimbursement for travel expense, and is not taxable income, unless you have developed the arrangement into a business or trade of transporting the riders.

(Q.) A flood completely destroyed new carpeting we were installing in a basement family room. Our insurance company declared the carpeting a total loss, but since we were underinsured, they reimbursed us only $700 of the $1000 we paid. Can I deduct the $300 as loss?

(A.) Since you intended to use the carpeting in your home and not in a business, the loss is considered a personal casualty loss and is deductible to the extent it exceeds $100. You allowable loss would be $200, that is the $1000 cost minus the $700 insurance proceeds and the $100 limitation.

You must be able to show the nature of the casualty and when it occurred, that you owned the property when the casualty occurred and that the loss was a direct cause of the casualty.

Then you must show the amount of deductible loss with some records documenting property's initial cost, the property's value before and after the casualty and value of insurance and other compensation, including free repairs and cleanup offered by a disaster relief agency.

Caterpillars Give Signs Of Winter

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—Tired of second-guessing the weatherman? This fall, why not try second-guessing the caterpillars.

Hamilton County Park District naturalist Warren Wells suggests that those woolly-bear caterpillars wiggling around in the garden may be accurate indicators of how much to bundle up this winter.

Wells said the wider the yellow band on the caterpillar, the milder the winter will be.

If trees drop their leaves before they color in the fall, better get out the old snow shovel.

It will be a long, hard winter if a fruit tree, that is supposed to bloom once a year, blooms twice during a summer.

The naturalist has also developed a few other "infallible" signs which have helped him to predict the weather for the coming winter.

A few of the signs are: If we've had heavy blackberry blossoms and fruit, look for a hard winter. ("We've had an excellent crop.")

Hornets nests built close to the ground mean a hard winter coming. ("We've found one already.")

A heavy crop of mast (acorns) means a bad winter. (Wells ignored this vital sign.)

If sweet potatoes have tough skins, the winter will be tough. (Wells made no mention on the toughness of potato skins, he might have encountered.)

Wells said he'd leave it up to others to believe or not to believe the "infallible" guidelines he had followed.

Of course, he did admit he has an advantage over other amateur forecasters.

He gets to see a lot more woolly caterpillars in his line of work.

E.F. MacDonald Co. Reports Net Earnings

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — The E. F. MacDonald Co. reported net earnings of $146,393, or four cents a share, for the three month period ending Aug. 17. The company lost $932,302, or 25 cents a share, during the same quarter last year.

Net earnings for the first half were $1,528,953, or 41 cents a share, compared to a loss of $793,227, or 21 cents a share, for the same six months last year.

Plan Legislation On ADC Payments

FINDLAY, Ohio (AP) — State Rep. Michael Oxley, R-82 Findlay, plans to introduce legislation to require what he called an annual redetermination of aid to dependent children recipients.

Citing a recent Ohio welfare department study which showed more than 20,000 recipients were ineligible for payment, Oxley said his proposition is intended to reduce fraud.

Oxley predicted the annual savings produced by his program could exceed $15 million. House Speaker Charles Kurfess, R-83 Perrysburg, assured strong Republican support in the House for the bill, which he called "an important step toward welfare reform."

Tax Rollback Money Sent Out

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A total of $3.4 million in second half 1974 property tax rollback reimbursements have been sent to 15 counties, state Auditor Thomas E. Ferguson said.

Ferguson also announced the distribution of $796,586.37 to the same 15 counties as their second half of 1974 reimbursements for administering and granting homestead tax exemptions to elderly homeowners.

He said the other counties will be reimbursed after they certify their tax settlements and property tax rollbacks to the state auditor's office.

Our Men And Women In Military Service

Private Danny K. Ramey, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Ramey, 809 S. Pickaway St., completed nine weeks of advanced individual training at the U.S. Army Infantry Training Center, Ft. Polk, La.

He received general training as a light weapons infantryman and as a mortar and recoilless rifle crewman, in addition to specialized weapons instruction.

He also was taught the proper use of high explosives and the placement, detection and disarming of mines.

Teamwork was emphasized while he learned to work as a member of a rifle squad, mortar squad or direct fire section. Each team member completed the training well qualified to perform other jobs in case of casualties.

Air Force Reserve (AFRES) Airman Patricia J. McCoy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James P. McCoy of Route 1, Orient, has graduated at Lackland AFB, Tex., from Air Force basic training.

PATRICIA J. MCCOY

While at Lackland, she studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special instruction in human relations.

The airman will receive specialized training in the medical services field at Sheppard AFB, Tex.

Airman McCoy is a 1966 graduate of Teays Valley High School, Ashville.

Lance Cpl. Danny A. Valentine, of the U.S. Marine Corps 3rd Div. FMF is now stationed in Korea.

DANNY A. VALENTINE

Valentine joined the Marines in 1974. He took basic training at Paris Island, South Carolina, completed his ITS training at Camp Pendleton, Calif., has served on Okinawa, Philippines, and Mt. Fuji, Japan.

Valentine was sent to Thailand to be part of the invasion force that landed on Koh Tang Island during the recovery operation of the U.S. Merchant Ship Mayaguez and its crew. He was awarded the Purple Heart for wounds he received during the combat action.

He is a 1974 graduate of Amanda-Clearcreek and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Pearl Valentine, Route 5.

PUCO Commends Erie-Lackawanna

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Public Utilities Commission of Ohio has commended the Erie-Lackawanna Railway Co. for early completion of the 1975 safety inspections on 308 track bridges.

"Their early and complete inspection reports to the PUCO show the company's concern for the safety of the railroad's employees and the citizens who pass under these bridges," Commissioner Sally W. Bloomfield said.

Victor L. Vorhees, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Vorhees, Route 2, Amanda, finished basic training and diesel school at Great Lakes, Ill.

Coast Guard Probes Raft Deaths

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—Life preservers worn by two of the three Zodiac raft drowning victims do not meet U.S. Coast Guard specifications for use on passenger-carrying vessels, according to a Coast Guard officer.

The two life preservers and others issued to an undisclosed number of passengers on the ill-fated Niagara River whitewater run were of a type restricted for use in recreational vessels, Lt. Cmdr. J. P. Foley said Saturday.

Foley heads a Coast Guard investigation of the Aug. 29 accident in which a 37-foot inflated raft with 29 persons aboard capsized in the lower rapids of the Niagara. Three of the passengers drowned and 20 others were treated for injuries.

Foley said the tags on the lighter U.S.-made jackets read, "Approved for use on uninspected vessels less than 40 feet in length and not carrying passengers for hire."

"I think it could be significant that two of the people who drowned were wearing this type of preserver."

"When we approve this type of jacket, it's assumed we're not talking about the middle of the Atlantic Ocean. The current in the Niagara River rapids is unlike anything else anywhere."

"I wouldn't like to have to make a personal test of any jacket down there," Foley said.

Frank Edwards, manager of Niagara Helicopters of Niagara Falls, Canada, participated in the rescue operation in which some survivors were actually plucked from the river by small hovering helicopters.

Edwards said he saw one man wearing a lifejacket go under in the whirlpool. Later that night Edwards located the body.

"Wes Hill and his cousin Ken Sloggett helped us bring in the body. It was David Ross. The life preserver looked small for the man," Edwards said.

"When we pulled him out, the jacket was all up around his neck," said Sloggett. "You could see it was too small for a man like him. He was a big fellow, probably weighed more than 200 lbs."

Hill said: "There just wasn't enough flotation. I could hold it under the water with one hand. It was a particularly poor one. A tag on the jacket said it wasn't to be used by commercial vessels carrying passengers for hire."

The type of jacket worn by Ross was made from bright red or yellow nylon filled with kapok. They were made to U.S. non-commercial specifications by Kent Sporting Co. of New London, Ohio.

Most passengers were issued small craft jackets made of heavy cotton drill and filled with kapok. They are bulky and fit around the head like a keyhole photographs taken Aug. 29 show. They were manufactured to stricter Canadian non-commercial

Services Slated For Ex-Official

BUCKEYE LAKE, Ohio (AP) — Funeral services are scheduled today for Edward L. Wickliff, former chief of the fish management section of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources who died Saturday. He was 82.

Wickliff was the past president of the North American Fisheries Society, a member of the Academy of Science and a former teacher at Ohio State University.

He is survived by four sons.

Kick the habit.

Bad habits are as easy to get into as they are hard to get out of.

Like calling directory assistance when you don't absolutely have to. You try it once or twice. And before you know it you're hooked.

After a while you don't think twice about picking up the phone and asking us to find phone numbers that, three times out of four, you could find yourself. In the phone book.

And people are abusing directory assistance now like never before. (One customer called us 1,460 times in one month alone!)

The trouble is, calling directory assistance needlessly ends up costing you money.

Because phone information isn't free.

The extra operators we need to service your extra calls cost us money. A cost that shows up on your phone bill. As part of the monthly service charge. Last year millions of consumer dollars were wasted on unnecessary information requests.

And all of those dollars came out of your pocket.

If that doesn't make you mad enough to cut it out altogether, isn't it enough to make you cut it down?

Well Child Clinic Provides Health Care

BABY GETS WEIGHED IN

Three hospital nurses, LaSertoma and Red Cross members and other volunteers are a vital part of the Well Child Clinic, held 8:30 a.m. to noon the second Wednesday of the month.

The function of the agency is to provide health care for pre-school children up to age five, of families in Pickaway County who are unable to provide such care.

The clinic also counsels the mothers of these children in general family nutrition.

In 1974 services were provided in a total of 604 Clinic visits. This included 812 immunizations, three patients had tonsils and adenoids removed, 14 patients had circumcisions, 57 received drugs for treatment of some physical condition, 31 were referred to other specialized clinics, eight were referred to dentists for specific dental problems, three were supplied with needed eye glasses, three were referred to medical doctors for specific treatment, 70 were given pre-school physicals and 143 new patients were seen.

The child is weighed and measured, then given an examination, a dietary plan and immunization, if it is necessary.

Ohio Man Killed In West Virginia

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — An Ohio man was killed Sunday in the head-on collision of a car and tractor trailer on U.S. 60 about 15 miles east of here.

State police identified the victim as Ralph M. McCune, 41, of Cleveland.

Officers said McCune was driving a station wagon that collided with the truck. The driver of the rig was not injured.

Fish Trawling Surveys Made

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Fish trawling surveys conducted in western Lake Erie by the Ohio division of wildlife show 1975 to be an excellent year for the reproduction of white bass and freshwater drum.

Dale Haney, division chief, said the freshwater drum reproduction rate exceeded the previous high by 36 per cent. The white bass rate compares with the 1970 record high.

Species which recorded a drop in the reproduction rate included yellow perch, walleye and several forage species.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

More On Flat Teen

DEAR ABBY: This is for FLAT, the 14-year-old girl with the 30 AA bra-and for all the other women, young and old, who wish they were bigger:

I've been there. When I was 14, I was tall and skinny, and wore a 32 AA.

Now I'm 23 and wear a 38D. Believe me, there are better things to wish for.

It's hard to find clothes that fit or blouses that button without gapping. Finding a bathing suit to conceal my top-heaviness is next to impossible. I can't wear sweaters or t-shirts without being stared or whistled at, and I've even been subjected to obscene remarks from strangers.

So tell that 14-year-old to pray that she stays small. It's a lot easier to cope with.

PULCHRITUDINOUS IN PASADENA

DEAR "PULK": Now let's hear from a male in Oregon:

DEAR ABBY: About your reply to FLAT-the 14-year-old girl who is worried because "all the dudes go for the built-up chicks."

You advised her to forget about those phony creams and gimmicks to enlarge her bust. You get an A on that.

You advised her to be "patient". You get a C on that because many women in their 20s, 30s, and 40s are still waiting patiently for that great "miracle" to happen-which seldom does.

You advised her to wear a padded bra so she would "at least look better in her clothes." On that, Dear Abby, you get an F! The poor girl has already swallowed too much cultural nonsense about a female's worth being directly related to her chest measurement.

Abby, no intelligent man gives a hoot about the size of a woman's breast. It's the person they're attached to that counts.

OREGON MALE

DEAR MALE: I'll take the A and C, but be fair and mark that F up to a D.

I agree, we should accept the bodies God gave us, but most insecure adolescents need a little bolstering (and upholstery) until they attain that enviable state of total maturity.

DEAR ABBY: I usually agree with your advice. However, your response to the poor, flat-chested 14-year-old girl ("get a padded bra") was a crock of polyfoam!

A—OK

DEAR ABBY: When I read the letter from FLAT, I felt I should reply.

One of my best friends is 14, and she's also flat, but she's the most popular girl with the boys at the parties we have.

She may be flat, but she has a wonderful personality, and people just love to be around her. She's very kind and never puts anybody down and is the kind of person who makes friends right away with girls and boys, too.

Sure, there are a lot of boys who just want a girl for her body, but who needs a guy like that?

I'm 14, 5-foot-8, 119 lbs. and don't have much of a bust either, but it doesn't bother me a bit because the right kind of boy won't care.

DEAR ABBY: Tell FLAT to thank God for her healthy little breasts. May they always remain healthy. Sign me.....

DOUBLE MASTECTOMY

DEAR ABBY: May I give FLAT a little advice?

If you envy all those big-busted girls because the boys look at them, you'd better be glad they're looking at

THEM and not you!

I'm 15 and also flat, but I consider myself lucky because when a boy looks at me, I know it's not because I'm big-busted.

So consider yourself lucky, because when the right guy comes along, he'll love you for what you are, not for what you have!

Ohio Hunting, Fishing Day Proclaimed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes has proclaimed Sept. 27 as Hunting and Fishing Day in Ohio. The Department of Natural Resource said it was "in recognition of the vital role played by Ohio sportsmen in conserving natural resources."

"Hunters and fishermen were among the first environmentalists," Rhodes said. "They have continually acted to eliminate abuses against our environment, benefiting numerous species of game and nongame fish and wildlife."

HOLD IT UMP—Umpire Bruce Froeming appears to be throwing a right cross to the belt of Dick Allen of the Philadelphia Phillies in a game with the Los Angeles Dodgers at Los Angeles. Actually, he's calling Dodgers Jimmy Wynn, left, out on a double play in the fourth inning. Dodgers won, 10-0.

Reds Shut Out Atlanta, 3-0

ATLANTA (AP)—Left-hander Don Gullett allowed just two hits as the Cincinnati Reds warmed up for the playoffs with a 3-0 victory over the Atlanta Braves Sunday.

"Gullett had great stuff today," said Reds Manager Sparky Anderson after the game.

Anderson added he would probably keep catcher Johnny Bench, who pulled a groin muscle last week, and most of his other regulars out of action most of this week.

"Johnny feels much better," he said. "It's just a pulled muscle, but I think I'll hold him out until Friday, then I'll play him the final three games. Everybody else is in pretty good shape, and I plan to play all the regulars the final three games."

Atlanta's hits, both singles, were slapped by Dave May in the fourth and Larvell Blanks in the fifth. The only other times Atlanta had runners on base was when Gullett, 144, walked Marty Perez in the second and Clarence Gaston in the seventh. Only Gaston got as far as second.

Pete Rose doubled to lead off the first and scored ahead of Ken Griffey, who belted his fourth homer of the year off Atlanta starter Phil Niekro, 15-14.

Niekro gave up another single to Terry Crowley in the first but retired the next 14 batters. Dave Concepcion's one-out single in the sixth broke the string.

Concepcion was forced by Griffey, who then scored the Reds' final run on a double by Dan Driessen.

"Except for the one pitch to Griffey, I thought I pitched a pretty good game," Niekro said. "If I could look back and call back one pitch, that would be it."

Second-baseman Darrel Chaney got a glove on May's bad-hop single in the fourth inning. Blanks' single in the next inning was a line drive to right.

Those were the only hits Gullett had allowed by the beginning of the eighth when he was relieved by Rawley Eastwick, who pitched two perfect

Artist Named To Participate

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Artist Bing Davis has been named to participate in the Second World Black and African Festival of Arts and Culture in Lagos, Nigeria later this year.

Davis is a professor of art at DePauw University in Indiana and is currently exhibiting a one-man show in Dayton. He is former art director of the Living Arts Center and will represent the Midwest region of the North American zone at the event.

He is currently vice president of the National Conference of Artists.

The Fighting Illini football team has played Ohio State and Michigan on successive Saturdays for the past three years and will continue that format until the 1979 season.

innings to earn his 19th save.

It boils down to this: Pittsburgh plays Philadelphia the next three nights. All the Pirates have to do is win one of those games and they win the National League East Division title.

Even an optimist like Phil's reliever Tug McGraw admits things look bleak for his club.

"We'll go out and play and hope to make it interesting," said McGraw, "but we'll be fortunate if we win."

Of course the Pirates could lose the next three games and still take the title, but that's not quite the way they want to do it.

"I think it would be something special to clinch it against the Phillies," said Pittsburgh second baseman Rennie Stennett. "They're the team that is chasing us and they're the team we have to beat."

"And I'm sure our fans would like us to clinch it against the Phillies. I don't think they like them too much, just like the Phillie fans don't like us."

The Pirates turned in a come-from-behind 5-3 victory over St. Louis Sunday while the Phils beat New York 4-2. That left the Bucs six games ahead with seven to play.

Elsewhere in the NL, Cincinnati blanked Atlanta 3-0, Houston defeated Los Angeles 4-1, San Francisco edged San Diego 2-1 and Montreal shaded Chicago 5-4.

St. Louis right-hander Bob Forsch took a two-hitter and a 3-1 lead into the bottom of the eighth but left in favor of Mike Wallace after Manny Sanguillen led off with a single. Wallace walked Bob Robertson and gave way to Mike Garman. Then the Bucs got serious.

Pinch-hitter Willie Randolph singled for one run, Garman threw Stennett's bunt away for another, Richie Hebner hit a sacrifice fly for a third and Al Oliver capped the rally with an RBI single.

The Phils won their ballgame with less drama, building a 4-0 lead on a two-run double by Dick Allen and a run-scoring double and sacrifice fly by Mike Anderson. Dick Ruthven, 2-2, checked the Mets until the seventh when McGraw came on to earn his 14th save, but not before giving up a two-run homer to Ron Hodges in the ninth.

Astros 4, Dodgers 1
J.R. Richard held Los Angeles to eight hits and contributed a two-run single for Houston. Richard, 12-9, bested Rick Rhoden, 3-3.

Giants 2, Padres 1
John Montefusco hurled a five-hitter to raise his record to 14-9, the most victories for a Giant rookie since Larry Jansen won 21 games in 1947. Brent Strom, 8-7, took the loss.

Expos 5, Cubs 4
Jim Lytle's RBI-single with one out in the ninth won it for Montreal. Jerry White homered for the Expos and Manny Trillo hit one for Chicago.

Reds Brace For Playoff Crowds

CINCINNATI (AP)—The show may be sold out on the inside, but Cincinnati officials want to make it perfectly clear that there is still plenty of room, and plenty to do, for those drawn to their city by the lure of the baseball postseason playoffs.

The Reds, during a threehour period Friday, sold the last 6,000 tickets remaining for the National League playoff games to be played here Oct. 4-5 and reported it was the earliest that any club had sold out for the post-season competition.

Jim Ferguson, club publicity director, pointed out that, based on ticket returns, the Reds had estimated they could have sold a half million tickets for the two games at Riverfront Stadium.

More than 15,000 priority ticket requests were returned unopened during the sale.

While the last ticket was being sold, the Chamber of Commerce was assuring all concerned that there was going to be a place for everyone to stay.

Although downtown hotels are booked up, there are still between 3-4,000 rooms available in the area if the Reds play in the World Series, Oct. 14-16.

"There are even more rooms available for the playoff dates," explained Joe Woodward, of the Cincinnati Convention and Visitors Bureau. "We've had people calling us up to offer their homes, but we haven't reached that stage yet."

The Chamber has set up a special hotline telephone number, beginning Monday, to advise visitors of room reservations and special events which are scheduled during the playoff period.

Those special events encompass everything from belly buttons to booster buttons.

"We'll have over 50 hours of music during the playoff period," said Richard Strubbe, of the Chamber of Commerce. "We've got everything from a stationary band to an exotic belly dancer."

The city is urging businesses to dress their employees in special tee shirts, which are being provided along with batting helmets and Reds' caps.

Booster buttons will be given to the tidal wave of tourists which is expected to inundate Greater Cincinnati Airport a few hours before gametime.

Over $15,000 is being spent on decorations, and much of it may be a case of planned obsolescence.

"We know that when we win the pennant, those signs are probably going to come down, but we're going to put them higher than they've been in the past," Strubbe said.

A former Stanford end in the 1930s, David Packard will receive the National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame's gold medal award in New York on Dec. 9.

Hard Water Damage Costly

LOMBARD, Ill. (AP) — Hard water costs consumers $6.3 billion annually, according to economists at the Water Quality Research Council. It wastes $1.8 billion in soaps, detergents, shampoos and other cleaning materials. It deteriorates plumbing at an estimated $2.7 billion rate. It does $1 billion in damage to sheets, linens, towels and washable clothing. In addition, by depositing insulating scale in water heaters, it adds $800 million to the nation's fuel bills.

About 80 per cent of the United States and Canada has hard water. On a per family basis, hard water damage costs each affected household $37 more each year for soaps, detergents, etc., $55 extra in plumbing repairs and replacements and $29 in shortened life for sheets, linens and other washables. Added annual fuel costs amount to approximately $18, the council reports.

Nathaniel Bacon staged an unsuccessful revolt in Virginia, May 10 to Oct. 18, 1676, because of abuses in government administration and taxation.

Views On Television

NEW YORK (AP) — Howard Cosell, operating out of CBS' "Ed Sullivan Theater" on Broadway, has begun his new career as ringmaster of an ABC variety show televised live as in olden days.

It's great to see a network risking the anything-can-happen feeling of a live variety show. If nothing else, it puts a certain edge to the work of performers; they come across now or forget it. Alas, we fear Cosell & Co. have considerable work ahead before they generate the excitement promised in ABC's advance publicity about "Saturday Night Live With Howard Cosell."

His premiere was passable, but the only thing really distinguishing it from taped variety efforts was its use of live "remotes" from Las Vegas and London.

From Vegas, we saw a magic-and-lion act. From London, we saw a pop music group, the Bay City Rollers, working out before a frenzied teenybopper audience at 1:17 a.m. London time.

Neither act was remarkable, although the use of live remotes — commonly used in news and sports coverage — was. Now, if only the show puts its live remotes to better use on Saturday nights.

Cosell's premiere opened with a number from the Broadway musical, "The Wiz," with the cast members dancing while mouthing the pre-recorded music, a custom also practiced in taped variety shows.

Of those who appeared to have sung live, only Shirley Bassey put any pizzazz in her performance. John Denver sang two songs pleasantly enough, but could have sent both in on tape.

Paul Anka arrived only to play piano accompaniment for a new singing sensation, Tennis star Jimmy Connors, who sang a medium tempo tune no worse than most pop stars and even stayed in key.

The show, supervised by Roone Arledge, head of ABC Sports, has promised to include "surprise visits" from major celebrities. Frank Sinatra was Saturday's surprise, but only for the audience. He read his banter with Cosell from cue cards.

All things considered, it wasn't a bad show, although we expected greater things from this live — it went on a tape delay to the West — venture. It seemed too tame, too predictable.

Still, Arledge is a smart guy, as his ABC Sports record shows, and Cosell, while ripe in speech and more opinionated than even a TV critic, doesn't lack for grey matter himself.

They've got a young, hip staff, a great band led by Elliott Lawrence and a lot of potential. We have the feeling the show eventually will achieve its promise of live excitement.

The only thing with which we'd really find fault is Cosell's Chamber of Commerce praise of New York City. Before the show, he said he felt the program "is going to establish for once and for all that our city is the greatest city in the world..."

This is bosh. Anyone knows San Francisco is the greatest city.

NEW ACQUISITION—Displaying a painting by the late Dr. Howard Jones is Miss Nell Oesterle, on the left, with Mrs. James Wade, a hostess of Adena, near Chillicothe, guest speaker for the Pickaway County Historical Society meeting Thursday evening. The painting was donated by Miss Eleanor Jones of Escondido, Calif.

Historical Society Views Adena Slides, Dr. Jones' Painting

By MARION SINES
Herald Staff Writer

Slides of Adena were shown during the Thursday evening meeting of Pickaway County Historical Society at the Clarke-May Home with Robert Johnson presiding.

A report on the historical and genealogical library was given by Mrs. Don Miller Sr. Announcement was made of the successful Historic House Tour sponsored recently by the society.

Mrs. O. E. Barr said the society has 10 new members and six new life memberships, and a total of 35 people joined during the past year.

Mrs. Robert Liggett told of plans for Ye Olde Bake Sale to be held again this year during Pumpkin Show on West Main St. next to the Chamber of Commerce office.

Miss Nelle Oesterle, program chairman, introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. James Wade of Chillicothe. Mrs. Wade, employed at Adena, showed new and old slides of the state owned estate near Chillicothe. The 20 room home, built by Thomas Worthington, a governor of Ohio, has few of the original pieces of furniture but has been furnished as it would have been during the family's residence.

The gardens have been restored to the former design including gravel paths in the same locations which had to be found by digging deeply in the ground.

Mrs. Wade showed the house during restoration and after completion, the tenant house, spring house and huge barn built on the side of a hill with equipment as would have been found at the time the Worthington family lived there. The first floor of the tenant house is now used for a gift shop, the spring house has the original large stones on the floor and spring water runs through as it did to cool the food many years ago, and new wooden fences have been erected at original locations.

Following the talk and slide show many members brought china or crystal and told of its background. Many historic pieces were on display.

A picture of ducks painted by the late Dr. Howard Jones and given to the museum by Miss Eleanor Jones of Escondido, Calif., was displayed. It was recently restored and placed in the original frame.

Serving on the refreshment committee were Miss Marie Hamilton, Mrs. Robert Johnson, Mrs. James Ullman and Mrs. O.C. West.

Constitution Week Essay Written

As a part of the observance of Constitution Week, September 17-23, the Constitution Week Committee of Pickaway Plains Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution invited high school students to write their thoughts about the Constitution, particularly about its relevance to theirs and future generations. Barbara Bolender wrote:

It starts with the words 'We the people of the United States...' and therein lies the essence of our system of government in which we the people form the government and the government exists to do our bidding. Each citizen has a part in the operation of the government by voting or becoming a public official." Allen Strous wrote: "I think the most amazing fact about the Constitution of the United States is that it has had the vitality and flexibility to survive as law for 188 years with relatively few changes. Even more amazing is the realization that the livingness of the Constitution was an outgrowth of the personalities of its authors." The authors, he described as "middle class merchants, lawyers and farmers" who he said were "trying to make their ideals possible". However he also said that, "They were practical idealists. They realized that too much liberty for one man would infringe upon the liberties of others. They saw that giving states equal rights with the federal government would lead to the loss of rights for either the states or federal government. The framers of the Constitution made the Constitution a document establishing balances - between men, between men and government, between states, between states and the federal government, between the branches of the federal government."

Miss Bolender wrote that the "The Constitution has kept the United States abreast in a progressive and changing world," and that "As times change so did the Constitution by way of amendments. The first amendments were the Bill of Rights, added soon after the Constitution was written. Since then, amendments have been added as they were needed. One can understand the greatness of the Constitution when he realizes that through nearly two hundred years of its existence the Constitution has been amended only twenty-six times." She further wrote that "The Constitution takes the common man's interest in personal freedom and adds government control for organization". Miss Bolender summed up her thoughts on the durability of the Constitution when she wrote, "As the Constitution has strengthened our country in the last two hundred years, I feel it will be just as strong in the next two hundred years. Even though times change, as long as there is a human element involved there will also be the element of individual freedom and the rights of each person and their country, so there will also be a need to insure these rights and freedoms. The United States Constitution has filled these needs and will continue to do so."

Constitution Week has been proclaimed by President Gerald R. Ford and locally by Frank Barnhill, mayor of Circleville.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ohio has spent another cool day and night. Temperatures failed to climb out of the 40s overnight. At daybreak, readings ranged from a chilly 42 in Cleveland with clear skies to 52 in Cincinnati, where it was cloudy.

A high pressure system stretching east to west across Ohio should keep the weather dry today, but tonight and Tuesday, Ohio will be on the northern edge of a rain area extending south to the Gulf of Mexico.

This afternoon, temperatures were to be in the upper 50s and 60s, accompanied by variable cloudiness. Cloudy skies are forecast for Tuesday with a chance of rain in southern Ohio. By Tuesday, temperatures will be in the 60s — some 10 to 15 degrees below normal for the first day of autumn.

Campaign Committee To Meet Tonight

The campaign committee for Bensonhaver for Mayor will hold a meeting 7 p.m. tonight at 123 Pontious Lane Apt. 4 for persons wishing to volunteer work for the campaign, announces Joe Koch, manager.

Volunteers who cannot attend the meeting but wish to help should call 474-5565 after 5 p.m.

Busing Behind Prof's Death?

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Last week, the youngest of Neal Bradley Long's seven children was bused to school for the first time.

Before that the son of the former mental patient accused of killing prominent desegregation planner Dr. Charles A. Glatt had walked to school.

Glatt, a 47-year-old Ohio State University professor, was at the federal courthouse working on a plan to further desegregate Dayton schools when he was shot Friday afternoon. He died in surgery at a Dayton hospital a short time later of four bullet wounds.

Cap Collins, Long's employer, speculated that the busing development or a recurrence of Long's mental problems may have precipitated the shooting.

The 48-year-old Long spent three months in 1968 in the Dayton Mental Health Center. Dr. Roberto Moronell, clinical director of professional services, said Long was psychotic. Moronell said he suffered from "an emotional disorder of major proportions."

Federal authorities are expected to seek psychiatric tests for Long, Dayton police said.

Dayton Police Chief Grover O'Connor said over the weekend that the department has "sufficient evidence" to link Long to a series of seven sniper slayings in Dayton since 1972, but he would not elaborate. O'Connor said the department is considering charges against Long in connection with the slayings. All of the victims of those incidents were black. Several weapons, including a .12-gauge shotgun and shell casings were removed from his apartment after Friday's shooting.

In an interview with the Dayton Journal Herald, Mrs. Johnna Glatt said although her husband took extensive precautions for his own safety, he didn't connect the sniper with the personal danger he associated with his job. Dr. Glatt had received several threats while working on a desegregation plan in Indianapolis and as a result "there was no routine" to his days, Mrs. Glatt said.

A preliminary hearing for Long is set for Thursday. Police said he had no previous felony arrests.

A memorial service for Glatt is scheduled Sept. 28. His body was donated to the OSU Medical School. He is also survived by Mrs. Glatt's two children, whom he adopted and three children from three previous marriages.

In addition to his court-appointed commission in Dayton, Glatt worked on desegregation plans for schools in Charlotte-Mecklenburg, N.C.; Evansville, Ind.; Philadelphia and San Francisco.

Ford Removes Import Fee On Some Petroleum Products

WASHINGTON (AP) — The price of a gallon of imported fuel oil will drop 1.5 cents as the result of the Ford administration's decision to remove the 60-cents-a-barrel import fee on refined petroleum products, officials say.

Federal Energy Administrator Frank G. Zarb announced the move Sunday and said President Ford will decide soon whether or not to remove a $2-per-barrel fee on crude oil imports.

Dropping the 60-cent fee came as a response to the abrupt lapse in price controls on most domestically produced oil, which could result in higher prices and spur inflation.

Removal of the fee on refined imports, first imposed in April 1973, fulfilled a pledge made by Ford to act if domestic controls ended. The antiinflationary move was made retroactive to Sept. 1 when domestic controls lapsed.

In the absence of price controls, refiners and importers are not legally bound to pass on the saving to consumers, but Zarb said he believed they would pass the benefits along because of current market resistance to higher prices.

The 60-cent fee covered refined fuel oil, gasoline and jet fuel. The expected 1.5-cent reduction in prices will primarily affect the New England and Middle Atlantic states where most refined imports are used.

U.S. consumption during midwinter of last year ran to about 2.4 million barrels a day of imported refined products, the great bulk of it for fuel oil. Refined imports made up about 14 per cent of the national total of refined petroleum products consumed last year.

If Ford also decides to drop the $2-per-barrel fee on imported crude, the price of petroleum products nationwide is expected to drop by about 3 cents per gallon.

But if oil companies raise the price of the domestically produced oil that became free of price controls Sept. 1, the retail price is expected to show a net increase of about 3 cents a gallon, according to administration estimates. Oil producers thus far have generally refrained from raising prices in view of the move underway in Congress to reimpose price controls.

Zarb warned that removal of the fees could be only temporary and they could be reimposed to discourage increasing dependence on foreign oil.

3 Arrested On Drug Charges

Circleville police arrested two persons from Lancaster today on drug related charges and a third charged with intoxication.

They were Bruce Bowen, 24, Marino C. Blaney, 23 and Terry Nye, 19.

Patrolmen Jim Ford, Robert Galer and Ken Henn were the investigating officers.

City police stopped a car driven by Bowen because he was apparently intoxicated. They searched him and discovered marijuana in his possession.

Obtaining a search warrant, they held the trio while searching the car. More marijuana, other drugs and a hypodermic needle were found in the vehicle.

Blaney was not actually implicated in the possession of drugs and was charged only with public intoxication.

Miss Nye was charged with possession and possession for sale.

IT TOOK THE SUN ALL SUMMER LONG TO MAKE THESE TOKAY GRAPES!

Now they're ripe and sugar-sweet, each cluster weighing a pound of more. Their luscious juiciness is protected from drying drafts and picky fingers. Handsome in a fruit bowl . . . satisfying touch-of-sweetness in lunchboxes . . . wonderful in Waldorf Salads. Every cluster a perfection, guaranteed to be good . . . so let your family munch as much as they want. Tasty as candy and better for you!

KEEPING YOU POSTED

"Sell By Oct. 5 . . ." OPEN DATED FOR FRESHNESS

At Kroger, you'll find freshness dates on some 1900 food products. Such as milk or eggs or bread. Or packaged fresh meats and fresh fruits and vegetables. And even many other items other grocers don't open-date . . . like jelly, snack crackers or peanut butter.

What does this freshness date mean to you—the consumer? The easy-to-read month and day (unlike old-fashioned code dating) tells you—and you—the last day a product may be sold in our store. That's so we're both sure that the product will be fresh when you buy it and take it home . . . and fresh in your home for an average usage period (or longer).

At Kroger, we believe that consumers have the right to know more about the foods they buy. That's why we voluntarily began open-dating more foods than just about anybody else in the country. This is one more Kroger service designed to help you—the consumer.

We Hear You and We're Trying To Help!
